Granite rejects zoning plan for recycling plant

By Meg Tebo
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — The City Council on Tuesday night declined to approve a request by a local scrap metal company to open a recycling business at 15th Street and Madison Avenue.

B&R Metals Co. had requested a zoning change to allow it to create a recycling and scrap metal business at the old Air Products site.

The request failed 6-7 on first reading with aldermen Judy Whitaker, Jeff Worthen, Walter Milton, Virgil Kambarian, Andy Tinko and Frank Scarsdale voting for approval; Lloyd Bailey, Ginny O'Bear, Dan Brown, Dan Partney, Paul Fisk, Emerald Daves and Casmer Skubish voted against. Jim Miller was absent.

Alderman Partney spoke against the change.

Waving a local telephone book as he spoke, Partney told the council he thought the business would be a blight on the city because of the potential location near a geographical entrance to the city limits.

"These people have seen fit to already place an ad in the phone book as a scrap metal business at that location, prior to receiving any rezoning classification. Nowhere are they listed under 'recycling' in this yellow pages," said Partney.

"We don't need another junk yard at another entrance to Granite City," he said.

Alderman Worthen told the council that the change would still require the business to build a cover over the yard, so that the scrap areas would not be visible from outside.

Cencom to hike basic cable rate

By Susan Dragich
Staff writer

COLLINSVILLE — Area customers of Cencom Cable Television can count on higher bills after April 1 when a $2 increase for basic cable channels goes into effect.

Cencom systems manager Chris Ginn said subscribers in Collinsville, Maryville, Caseyville, Troy, Edwardsville, Glen Carbon, Granite City, Highland, Glen Carbon and parts of St. Clair and Monroe counties will be affected by the rate increase.

Quid Cities area mayors could not be reached for comment at press time. However, several other area mayors expressed dissatisfaction with the rate hike, but showed little surprise.

The hike comes 15 months after a $2.50 increase for basic cable in January of 1989. The new charge for basic cable will be $7.95, up from $5.95.

"At least 90 cents of the increase can be attributed to inflation alone, based on facts obtained through a Bureau of Labor Statistics," Ginn said.

He said basic programming costs have increased by 35 percent overall, and the company has also increased its staffing in the customer service and technical department.

"We are continuing to enhance our services, and along with this increase we've added American Movie Classics to our channel lineup," Ginn said. He said AMC, a pay channel, is one of the most popular.

Cencom raised rates for its pay channels in January. It sent letters to city councils in late February informing them of the April 1 increase in basic cable service.

"I'm just wondering when it's going to end," Troy Mayor Velda Arnes told a reporter Wednesday. "I'm concerned with how long the people are willing to put up with this and what the alternatives are. What else can we do besides stop paying it?"

"In my opinion, they're running themselves out of business and I think we should be made aware of their long-range plans and how much they plan to increase rates in the future," she said.

Collinsville Mayor Gene Brombolich noted that at one time, local governments had the authority to regulate all cable increases. Federal regulations, changed about five years ago, taking the municipalities out of the picture.

"It's a luxury item and if people want to pay it they will, but I personally don't see how they can justify the increase," Brombolich said.

"When the city raises its water rates, it's justified by installing new storage tanks. But how do they justify their increase?"

Brombolich said there is always an alternative — canceling the service and watching network TV.

Mayor Rich Konsky of Maryville said, "If the people feel like it's worth it, they should pay, but eventually the company is going to reach a saturation point when customers will say 'enough is enough.' That may cause the company to reevaluate its increases," Konsky said.

Ginn said there is always a reaction when the rates change, but "when the cost to provide a business increases, a company has to raise its rates accordingly."

Hopkins gets second sentence

GRANITE CITY — A man convicted of manslaughter last month was convicted of misdemeanor assault last week.

Ernie Hopkins, 58, of Granite City was sentenced Feb. 5 after pleading guilty in the manslaughter death of his wife, Ruth, on Dec. 6, 1988.

On Feb. 28, in a bench trial, he was sentenced to one year's supervision for an attack on Pauline Dumas while he was free on bond after pleading guilty in his wife's death. The supervision ordered by Associate Judge Dan Stack took effect immediately.

In the first case, Associate Judge J. Lawrence Kershner sentenced Hopkins to six months in jail, followed by a year of intense probation.

Terms of the probation call for treatment for alcohol abuse related to his violent behavior, curfew and community service.

Any probation violations could result in confinement for an additional six months.

New Pizza Hut ready for debut

By Andy Slering
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — A new Pizza Hut outlet will open March 19 at No. 9 Nameoki Village, said Pizza Hut Area Manager Jim Sill.

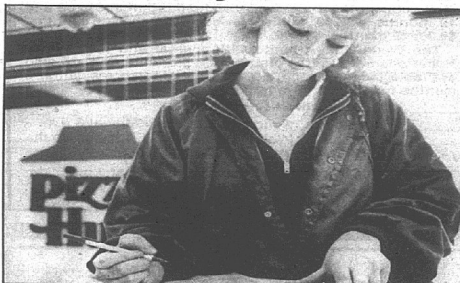

The transformation of what used to be the Holiday One-Hour Cleaners (across the street from Burger King) has drawn the attention of passers-by for several weeks. The new store is what is called a "delivery outlet," Sill said. It will not have sit-down seating and will cater mostly to those who want delivery. There will be a carry-out window.

"Delivery is the fastest-growing segment of the pizza business," Sill said.

He said the new store will ease pressure on the company's Johnson Road restaurant.

Sill said the new outlet will employ about 40 people. It is currently taking applications.

The store needs kitchen workers and drivers, Sill said; the former must be at least 16 and the latter 18 with their own insurance. Sill said the new store brings to 68 the total of Pizza Huts in the metropolitan bistate area.

He said the company plans another 30 delivery units in the area — five in the next six months.

Pontoon looks at new ambulance service

By Valerie Evenden
Staff writer

PONTON BEACH — Trustees were receptive Tuesday night to a proposal establishing a new ambulance service for village residents.

The service also would be available to persons residing in surrounding areas.

Trustee Marvin Ribbing introduced Dave Stahlhut of Alton, who briefly outlined his proposal to establish Metro Ambulance Service in the area.

He also hopes to interest and enroll Nameoki and Chouteau township governmental bodies in the program.

"The major plus of the proposal is getting us out of the bill collecting business and a quicker response time for service," Rib-bing said. Stahlhut plans to collect his own bills from residents.

"Our main problem is getting good ambulance service since Campbell (Ambulance) moved to Madison," Mayor Glen Wilson said.

Stahlhut intends to locate the new service's headquarters at a building on Illinois 162, next to the Nameoki Township garage, he said.

He proposes to sign contracts for the ambulance service to serve a community or township for a $2,000 annual fee.

"Do you have to get all three?" Trustee Louis Whitsell asked, referring to Nameoki and Chouteau townships and the village.

"No. But it would be nice," Stahlhut replied.

Two ambulances would be available immediately with a third unit proposed to be added at a future date, Stahlhut said.

He has talked with area fire departments, which expressed willingness to provide assistance if an ambulance is not available at the time, Stahlhut said.

Whitsell said the $2,000 annual fee was not prohibitive. "I think we budgeted $13,000 for ambulance service in 1989-90. I think this is a good deal," he said.

Later, Whitsell said the amount budgeted primarily was to cover a $14,000 bill submitted by Campbell Ambulance Service for uncollected ambulance fees.

Payments owed to the ambulance firm by individuals extended over a period of several years and included ambulance response to accident scenes and sick cases. Village Clerk Mary Warren said.

The municipality signed an agreement Jan. 23 with AAA Credit Services of Belleville to collect the fees.

The firm charges a 40 percent collection fee, with the village receiving 60 percent of the collected amount.

Stahlhut said he expects to upgrade the new service from a basic life support system rating to an advanced life support system.

One problem in setting up the new service will be alerting the public where to call for an ambulance, as new telephone bookers have already been distributed, Stahlhut said.

Senior citizens have agreed to assist by alerting residents to the new service, he said.

Trustees approved a resolution of intent to contract for ambulance service with Metro Ambulance Service until such time as a formal contract is drawn up by the village attorney.

Six injured on Nameoki Road

Six persons were injured in a two-car collision at 6:40 p.m. March 2.

Kathryn D. Mitchell, 44, of the 2200 block of Morrison Road was driving south on Nameoki Road and started to make a left turn onto Lindell Boulevard when her car was involved in a collision with a northbound auto operated by Christine R. West, 31, of the 2200 block of Lee Avenue.

West said she had just switched lanes to go around northbound vehicles waiting to turn left and attempted to swerve to avoid Mitchell's car.

Mitchell was charged with failure to yield on making a left turn. She and a passenger in her car, Mark P. Mitchell, 12, of the Morrison Road address, were hurt and taken to ambulance to St. Elizabeth Medical Center.

A projectile, possibly a bullet, was found at the scene.

This was not the first time shots had been fired at security guards on the property, Lawrence said.

The activities came to light when a younger child was seen committing an intimate act that the mother questioned. She had suspected something was wrong about two months ago and had called the Illinois Department of Children and Family Services at that time, she told officers.

One of the children said the suspect had threatened to hurt him if he told of the assault. A suspect was questioned but was released without charges being filed.

Judge candidates disagree with poor ratings in Bar poll

By Martin Richter
Staff writer

If a recent poll of Illinois lawyers is correct, voters in the 20th Judicial Circuit face a choice between bad and worse in the election for a new circuit judge March 20.

The two candidates, Associate Judge Michael J. O'Malley of Belleville and attorney Robert Mays of East St. Louis, received a "not recommended" and a "strongly not recommended" rating, respectively, in the poll released by the Illinois State Bar Association.

Associate Judge Jerome F. Lopinot, who is running unopposed for resident judge in St. Clair County, received a "recommended" rating.

The poll assigned judicial candidates throughout the state numerical scores on a scale of one to 100 and rankings from "strongly recommended" to "strongly not recommended." recommended."

The ratings of Mays, O'Malley and Lopinot were based on the responses of 265 lawyers in the 20th Circuit.

Mays and O'Malley discounted the poll's results, and even seemed to take a little pride in their poor ratings. Both said the poll can be partisan.

"I sort of wear it as a badge of courage," said Mays, whose overall rating of 40.08 was, by far, the lowest of the 61 candidates rated.

"I am not an insider. I'm not beholden to lawyers and judges," Mays said. "I would think that people would feel more comfortable with a judge who is somewhat insulated and unfettered from the influence of lawyers and politicians."

O'Malley said he wouldn't be doing his job if he didn't make a few enemies. His overall rating of 71.17 was higher than the score of 70 needed to be "recommended," but he was given a "not recommended" rating because his score in judicial integrity, 65.09, was less than 70.

"I've prosecuted a lot of cases over the years, and I've sat on a lot of controversial cases," he said. "I'm sure there's a lot of lawyers who don't like me, and I think that may be why."

"The lawyers' poll is very, very partisan," Mays concluded. "It gives lawyers who may have an interest in seeing a certain judge elected an opportunity to disparage their opponents."

Despite Mays' and O'Malley's comments, Public Affairs Director David Anderson of the Illinois State Bar contended that the poll is fairly accurate. The association has conducted the poll for more than 20 years.

"Obviously, a poll like this has to depend on the lawyers giving honest answers," Anderson said. "But the great preponderance of them seem to do that. It's apparent from looking at the ballots that most of them took some time and filled them out thoroughly and conscientiously."

Anderson said the poll is done to give voters information on judges' races, which typically do not receive a lot of media attention.

"Judicial elections can be hard to figure out," he said. "There really isn't a whole lot of information available. Candidates cannot discuss what they would do in specific situations, because of ethics."

Lopinot could not be reached for comment.

Residents fearful in wake of murders

By Carl Hott
Correspondent

FAIRVIEW HEIGHTS — Eleven Wright wasn't very careful about noticing the behavior of people around her — until the shooting death of Charles O. "Chuck" Woodcock at the Fairview Heights Short Stop a few weeks ago.

"I don't trust anymore," said Wright, who lives on Laurel Drive in Fairview Heights. "I see people come in (to restaurants and shops), and I get tight inside. I'm resentful."

Wright, 70, is not alone in her fears. With the second Fairview Heights murder in as many months, in a city that hasn't seen a murder since 1984, more people are becoming exceedingly wary regarding the possibility of domestic violence.

A three-week employee of Short Stop, a convenience store at 10220 Lincoln Trail, Woodcock was slain Feb. 21 between 11 p.m. and midnight, police said. Woodcock, who was shot twice in the head, was found by two customers the next morning.

Fairview Heights Police Chief Roger Richards said $2,000 in cash was stolen from the store. Two suspects, Terrance Towns, 19, and Reynoldson A.E. Taylor, 18, both of Fairview Heights, are awaiting trial and are being held without bond.

Woodcock's shooting came two months after the shooting death of Jerry Lane, 49, a Fairview resident. Lane was discovered shot to death in his burning home Dec. 20. Police, who believe the fire was an attempt to cover up the shooting, have not found a suspect or a motive in the case.

"The history of our city has not been one of violent crime," said Lt. Dale Fredeking of the Fairview Heights police department, who is involved in the Lane investigation. "The statistics indicate that. We just happened to have two murders in a short time, that's all."

Census employment testing slated

Equal opportunity employment with the U.S. Census Bureau is now available in the Granite City area. Crew leaders, census takers, data transcribers and office personnel are needed for full-time, temporary work in this area.

Applicants must be U.S. citizens, be at least 18 years old or 16 with a high school diploma or equivalent, and have a valid driver's license.

All applicants must also successfully complete a written test to qualify for census jobs. Tests are scheduled in the Granite City area as follows:

Granite City Job Service — every Tuesday in March at the Illinois Department of Employment Security Granite City office. Tests are scheduled at both 10 a.m. and 1 p.m. on these days.

The rate of pay for census jobs will range from $5.50 to $8 per hour. Census workers will be paid for their training and they will also receive mileage reimbursement of 24 cents per mile.

This year, federal civil service retirees and military retirees may work for the census bureau for up to 180 days without a reduction in their retirement pay.

Additionally, AFDC (Aid to Families with Dependent Children) recipients may work for the census bureau for up to 180 days without a reduction in their monthly benefit checks or food stamp allocations.

For more information about census jobs, additional test sites and schedules, persons may call the census district office at (618) 236-3040 or 236-3052 from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday or contact the Illinois Department of Employment Security office.

New Me Jamboree set for kids

GRANITE CITY — On the surface, "The New Me Jamboree" may look like a lot of fun and games, which it promises to be.

"But underneath it all, your child will be learning," said Jim Chiappa, director of the Wellness Center, 2103 Iowa St. "He or she will be learning all about good nutrition and physical fitness by participating in talks, games and other exercise activities."

The program will run on six consecutive Saturday mornings beginning March 17, with each class lasting approximately 90 minutes.

The six-week program is being offered for the first time through the Wellness Center, a department of St. Elizabeth Medical Center.

It is designed to help out-of-shape and overweight children between the ages of 8 and 12 get back into shape and build their self-esteem, while helping active youngsters stay in shape.

"Even if your child is fit right now, there's no guarantee he or she will be that way in 20 to 30 years," Chiappa said.

"Besides teaching kids a healthier lifestyle, we want to make the class as much fun as possible for them in which means there won't be any homework involved.

"The child shouldn't think of it as going to school and being stuck in a classroom all morning, because that's not how we have it set up," Chiappa said.

"Attending the jamboree is simply going to be a much healthier alternative to sitting at home on the couch all morning eating doughnuts, watching cartoons, and playing Nintendo."

The charge for the class will be $20. Julie Bugnitz, a registered dietitian at SEMC, and Nancy Owens, a health educator/fitness instructor at the Wellness Center, will teach the program in tandem.

"It will be unlike any other gym class or health course your child has ever been enrolled in," Chiappa said.

"Forget sit-ups, push-ups and chin-ups. How about running through a challenging obstacle course? The physical fitness part of the program will utilize the Wellness Center's walking track and aerobics room."

"We'll work on improving their balance, coordination, endurance, flexibility and strength," Owens said. "Now is the time to develop healthy habits so they will carry on through your child's teen-age years and into adulthood."

Besides being one of only a few fitness programs in this area geared specifically toward children, the New Me Jamboree also gets parents involved in three of the sessions.

Participants keep a diary of everything they eat for two days so a registered dietitian can evaluate each individual's diet and point out any eating habits that aren't healthy.

Familial eating habits will also be analyzed. Then, both the children and parents will set goals for themselves to try and change one or two of those bad habits.

In addition, meal planning and dining out will be discussed. Preparing food and tasting samples also are on the agenda.

The New Me Jamboree is one way St. Elizabeth Medical Center is seeking to promote recreation and exercise for youths in the community.

"We hope it will be something they will want to return to and not just something their parents make them attend," Owens said.

Class size is limited, so pre-registration is required. To pre-register or obtain more information, the Wellness Center can be called at 798-3WEL.

Bar owner to say goodbye to her friends

NAMEOKI TOWNSHIP — Anita's tavern, Third Street and McCambridge Avenue will be the site of a going away party tomorrow night for its proprietor, Anita Hahne, who is sick.

Hahne, who with her deceased husband, Cole, formerly owned Hoppe's tavern at 2807 Edwardsville Road, is going to Texas to get on a waiting list for a heart transplant.

Cole Hahne, who was a Granite City Steel carpenter, died three years ago.

"She don't want no sympathy or anything," said Kim Page, who manages Anita's tavern for Hahne. "She just wants to tell everybody she'll see them in 10, 11 months."

But Page said doctors in St. Louis told Hahne she had about six months to live with her current heart. She said Houston Memorial Hospital had told Hahne it "could probably get her (a heart) within six to eight months."

Page said the tavern will have free food, including 300 pigs-in-a-blanket. Normal prices will be charged for alcohol, she said.

Earthquake!

Living in the shadow of the New Madrid Fault

By Meg Tebo
Staff writer

You're sleeping peacefully when suddenly you're jolted from your bed by an incredible force. The room is shaking; things are falling from walls and shelves. As you cover on the floor trying to catch your breath, heart racing, you wonder if this is a nightmare. But it's no nightmare: this is really happening....

EARTHQUAKE!!

For those who have experienced this most powerful and devastating of nature's forces, reactions range from the nonchalance with which skydivers greet the thought of jumping from an airplane to the utter terror of a child lost in a crowd.

For those who have never been in an earthquake, the apprehension can also be debilitating.

One way to overcome some of the fear and to safeguard life, limb and property is to be prepared for what some local scientists are calling the inevitable: an earthquake right here in the Midwest along the spindly tributaries of the New Madrid Fault.

New Madrid hasn't hurled her fury full force since the last century. But scientists say odds are increasing statistically that an earthquake with a magnitude to rival that of last October's San Francisco quake will occur in the Midwest within the next 50 years. It becomes more likely.

Statistics from the Illinois Emergency Services and Disaster Agency indicate that by the year 2035, odds would be greater than 50 percent that an earthquake of at least 6.0 on the Richter Scale would occur along the New Madrid Faultline, which runs roughly from northern Arkansas to southern Illinois.

Much of the discussion following the California quake has centered around what municipalities and government agencies should do to minimize roads, bridges and buildings from the effects of earthquakes.

But local officials have also begun to look at ways in which individuals, small businesses and places such as schools can try to minimize damage and, more importantly, reduce the potential for personal injury or death.

Local school officials have only just begun to assess the avoidable risks in each school building and devise plans to eliminate those risks.

Risk reduction techniques range from the no-cost act of simply moving heavy objects off of high shelves to the much more expensive shoring up of walls at vulnerable spots and strengthening foundation points.

Some of the structural risk factors cited for large buildings such as schools include those that are more than 200 feet long or more than six stories high; those that are very heavy structurally, such as auditoriums or stadiums; those where weight is distributed unevenly, such as where one part of the building has more stories than another part, or where wings are attached, making the building asymmetrical; buildings more than 50 years old; and those with deteriorating mortar on load-bearing outer walls.

Interior risk factors include suspended ceilings; swinging plants or lamps; heavy objects stored on shelves or walls above the head-level of a seated person; heavy standing objects such as bookshelves or file cabinets which are not anchored to the walls; large untempered windows which may shatter; and TV monitors not secured.

Just how big was it?

Magnitude is an instrumental measure of the "size" of an earthquake—that is, the total amount of energy released by the earthquake.

Several different magnitude calculations can be made from the amplitudes of the seismic vibrations recorded by a seismograph.

Calculation of the magnitude of an earthquake takes into consideration the amplitude and period of the recorded vibrations and the distance of the seismograph from the source of the earthquake within the earth—the hypocenter.

Thus, the same magnitude will be calculated from the recordings made by seismographs at different distances from the hypocenter.

Because the first instrumental magnitude scale was developed in 1935 by Charles F. Richter, magnitude is commonly referred to as "the Richter Scale."

Intensity is a measure of the effects of an earthquake on people, animals, structures and the ground.

Intensity values are denoted by Roman numerals on the Modified Mercalli Intensity Scale (Wood and Neumann, 1931), which ranks seismic effects into 12 levels of increasing severity.

An intensity map or isoseismal map for an earthquake is made by plotting on a map the intensities assigned to the effects produced by the earthquake at various places and then contouring the plotted values.

A BLUEPRINT FOR EARTHQUAKE SURVIVAL

What to do, and when to do it

The following points may be helpful for you and your family to survive an earthquake caused by the New Madrid Fault.

Before

1. Support the adoption and enforcement of building codes that have suitable requirements for earthquake-resistant design.
2. Check your home for earthquake hazards. Bolt down or provide other strong support for gas appliances and gaslines. Use flexible connections wherever possible.
3. Teach responsible members of your family how to turn off electricity, gas and water at main switches and valves.
4. Provide for your family to receive instruction in basic first-aid because medical facilities may be overloaded immediately after a severe earthquake.
5. Think about what you should do if an earthquake strikes when you are at home; at school; driving your car; at work; or in a

During

1. If indoors, watch for falling plaster, bricks, light fixtures, high bookcases, and other furniture which might slide or topple. Stay away from windows, mirrors and chimneys. If in danger, get under a table, desk or bed; in a corner away from windows; or in a strong doorway. Usually, it is best not to run outside.
2. If in a high-rise office building, get under a desk. Do not use elevators, since stairways may be broken and jammed with people. Power for elevators may fail.
3. If outdoors, avoid high buildings, walls and power poles. Move to an open area away from all hazards.

After

1. Apply first-aid or seek medical help for injured people.
2. Check for fires or fire haz-

- ards. Do not use matches, lighters or open-flame appliances until you are sure that there are no gas leaks. Do not operate electrical switches or appliances if gas leaks are suspected.
3. Avoid downed powerlines or objects touched by the downed wires.
4. Obtain emergency water from water heaters, toilet tanks, melted ice cubes, and canned vegetables, if the water is off.
5. Check to see that sewage lines are intact before permitting continued flushing of toilets.
6. Do not use your telephone except for genuine emergency calls.
7. Check your chimney. Unnoticed damage could lead to a fire. The initial check should be made from a distance. Approach chimneys with caution.
8. Do not go sightseeing. Keep the streets clear for passage of emergency vehicles.
9. Be prepared for additional earthquake shocks called "after-shocks."

Wounded power company hoping for dividends, happier customers

Like the person in a dunking chair at a carnival, or like the punching bag in a gym, Illinois Power has been a favorite "utility bashing" target in recent years. IP has been battered and bruised.

How does the company react to the wounds, and what are its future plans?

The just-issued annual report reveals the thinking of Chairman Wendell J. Kelley, President Larry D. Haab and others.

IN A NUTSHELL, the Decatur-based power company says, "Our immediate goals are fundamental—return to financial health, restore a common-stock dividend, and rededicate ourselves to consumer satisfaction."

Kelley, 63, and Haab, 52, in a joint statement said that financially, 1989 was the worst year in our company's 66-year history. "For the year, earnings" reflect a loss of $4.34 per share of common stock.

issued a rate order that had a devastating effect on earnings per share and the market value of our common stock.

"THE 6.9 PERCENT increase in electric rates was overwhelmed by disallowing 17 percent of the cost of building the nuclear generating station at Clinton, blocking a common equity return on much of the remaining investment in that plant and funding operating expenses at 1986 levels.

"As a result, we recorded a $346 million after-tax write-off in the first quarter of the year.

"For the year, earnings" reflect a loss of $4.34 per share of common stock.

"IT WAS NECESSARY for us to suspend payment of the common stock dividend, interrupting a 42-year history of continuous dividends.

Bill Winter

"Cornerstones of the recovery plan include challenging the 1989 rate order in court (May 9), filing a new rate request (July 13), reducing operating costs ($30 million a year, 11 percent of the workforce, 13 fewer offices) and expanding the already successful economic development program."

QUALITY OF SERVICE is uppermost, Kelley and Haab said Feb. 14, 1990. They added:

"It would be easy to let financial concerns overshadow all that we do. But the future demands a greater vision.

"That's why we reshaped IP's mission, focusing on financial recovery for the short term and commitment to high-quality service for the long term.

"Through employee teamwork and self-direction, we plan to deliver the best customer service, with the greatest efficiency, at the lowest possible cost.

"We'll reinstate a common-stock dividend and restore the value of your investment as soon as possible. We'll continue to find innovative ways to make this utility the best it can be."

MANY FAMILIES HERE say electricity costs so much it is a strain on their budget. Others say buildings are so dependent on electricity that if utility staffs shrink too much, there could be inconvenient and even life-threatening "blackouts."

Dark clouds on the horizon include studies showing a serious future electric power shortage nationally.

Also, "acid rain" legislation could reduce use of high-sulfur coal at power plants, in favor of costlier fuels and/or installation of expensive sulfur dioxide

"scrubbers." *****

THE OTHER MAJOR ROLE for IP besides electricity is providing natural gas. The company comments:

"The once-stable gas marketplace was permanently changed by price volatility during the oil embargo. Then, deregulation further altered the gas market in the 1980s.

"As a result, customers are installing a variety of high-efficiency equipment—gas chillers, vacuum furnaces and air conditioners—as a hedge against the type of energy price volatility they saw in the mid-1970s.

"With gas prices well below those earlier levels, major industries across the country are permitted to buy from outside suppliers.

IP IS PERFORMING its traditional role—buying gas for direct sale—and expanding its role of transporting gas that industrial customers have purchased elsewhere.

"In addition, IP works with large-use customers to develop gas supply arrangements that best meet their needs.

"Bitter cold weather in December 1989 pushed customer demand for natural gas to levels that were unprecedented for that early in a winter season.

"Gas usage on Dec. 21 reached 73 million therms, the highest single daily load since 1983 and the third highest in the company's history.

"FIVE INTERSTATE pipelines connect IP to the nation's major gas markets. IP's eight gas storage fields—developed years ago to meet peak needs—are also used to help avoid additional charges for reserving sufficient gas supplies.

"IP (in this way) has saved customers $113 million since 1983.

"Nevertheless, the company faces the continued challenge of 'bypass' and declining profitability on gas sales and service."

Credit cards are so-o-o convenient and as long as they aren't misused, fit right in with today's pace of living.

But, when the bill comes, take time to check it carefully. Look for any incorrect or unauthorized purchases.

If something incorrect does show up, how do you deal with it and protect your credit rating? Fortunately, you are helped by the Fair Credit Billing Act. It requires lenders to correct errors promptly without jeopardizing the card holder's credit rating.

First, write the credit card issuer within 60 days after the bill is mailed. Describe the error on the bill, including the dollar amount and date of the error, and explain why the amount is wrong.

Be sure to include your name, address and account number. Also send copies of any documentation necessary to support your claim.

The lending institution is required to respond with a letter of explanation within 30 days if no corrections are made. If corrections are made, response may take 90 days.

Finance charges on the disputed amount are suspended during the investigation of an error on a bill. If it is determined that there is no error, the card holder must pay finance charges.

I'll find you have a lot in common.

The Banks family is probably a lot like your family. When they all get together, everybody enjoys visiting with everyone else.

But individually, they're at different stages of their lives, with very different needs.

For instance, Maggie and Mort are newlyweds, just starting out, while Milt and Penny Banks are now empty-nesters. Then there's Grandpa Ira and Grandma Fanny Mae who have just retired.

Even though each has very different financial needs, they're all happy customers of Magna.

That's because we have taken the time to carefully discuss their own specific needs with each family. So they now better understand exactly where they are headed and how we can help them get there.

If it's been a while since you had a serious talk with your banker, maybe you're not banking at the right bank.

EXPANDING
YOUR WORLD

Dear Neighbor,

By law we are not permitted to ask you to vote for or against the proposition. However, we may tell you about our services and the proposition. Hopefully this ad will be informative.
Project PLUS library cards are available to you FREE OF CHARGE now through June 30, 1990, at either the main library, 2001 Delmar, or the branch library, 2145 Johnson Road. These cards are paid for by a grant from the Illinois State Library, a Division of the Office of the Secretary of State, using federal LSCA funding.

Thank you for your interest and consideration.

What will the boundaries of the proposed library district be?

If the propositions in both the city and outlying areas pass, the boundaries of the new library district would be the same as the school district boundaries. (Exception: The Village of Pontoon Beach decided not to participate.)

Why are we being asked to join the proposed Granite City Public Library District?

Ask any of the 1,000 Project PLUS cardholders who have enjoyed using the services of the main and branch libraries during the last several months. The services of the library are varied and useful. It makes sense for students to belong to a public library service area that encompasses the same area as the schools they attend.

It makes sense for the library to be able to provide service to people who live only a short distance from the boundaries of the city. A library district will help the library respond to the growing number of people, particularly students, living outside the city.

The election will be held on March 20. Please exercise your voting privilege and register your opinion. This advertisement is presented by the Granite City Public Library Board and is paid for by a grant from The Illinois State Library, a division of The Office of the Secretary of State, using Federal LSCA Funding.

It makes sense for areas outside the city to reap the advantages of a strong, experienced library staff and management.

A library district will allow areas outside the city to avoid the costly process of establishing a new library and will allow area taxpayers to achieve a certain "economy of scale."

A library district will eliminate the difficulty of selling library cards to people living in Chouteau and Nameoki townships.

How will the new library district be governed?

The governing body would be elected by the citizens of the district and be responsible only to the voters within the district. Illinois library standards and the laws of Illinois. It will be completely independent of city government. In short, a library district would be similar to the park district, except that a library district can grow beyond the municipal boundaries. It will be directly responsible and answerable to the voters because the library board will be elected directly by the people.

Who will set the new library district's budget?

The library district would become a separate taxing entity. Its basic tax rate would be set by the voters at the current rate of 29.7 cents per $100 of assessed valuation, and this basic tax rate could be changed only by permission of the voters. Major budget increases would be dependent upon the economic development of the area.

Can you be more specific concerning new taxes?

Based on the average assessed valuation in the two townships, the average tax would be $34.47, considerably less than the cost of a yearly subscription to TIME magazine.

Why should I choose to pay this additional tax?

You will have to decide whether the services to you and your family are worthwhile. The present cost of a non-resident card is $43.00 per year.

Corps study saves taxpayers $8 million

GRANITE CITY — The Melvin Price Locks and Dam between Alton and Granite City will cost $8 million less because of a value engineering study done by the Army Corps of Engineers' St. Louis District.

The study resulted in a way to pour concrete underwater, allowing the downstream guideway on the main lock chamber to be built without constructing a cofferdam.

Corps spokesman Ken Kruchowski said the guideway was built by constructing precast concrete beams and setting them against concrete-filled sheet pile walls.

This method of construction will also be used for both the upstream and downstream guideways of the auxiliary lock of the Melvin Price Locks and Dam project.

The study was done by an interdisciplinary value engineering team set up in the St. Louis District.

The study results were turned over to the Corps' Nashville District, which did the final detail design work.

The two districts shared an award for the study and design work in the 1988 Corps' Chief of Engineers Design and Environmental Awards competition.

Neighborhood improvement coordinator will be named

By Meg Tebo

Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — The City Council voted Tuesday night to create the position of neighborhood improvement coordinator.

The person to be selected for the position will be responsible for inspecting property for compliance with ordinances and codes as part of the city's Neighborhood Revitalization Plan, specifically in East Granite.

The coordinator will report to Director of Economic Development Alan Orbals.

In other business, the council voted to accept a deed for property at 1909 Edison Ave. as a gift from the GCT Realty Co.

Planning and Zoning Committee Chairman Jeff Worthen reported that his committee is currently exploring ways the building might be used by the city or by a private firm which would either buy or lease the building from the city.

Aldermen approved annexation of residential property located at Mockingbird Lane and Keith Drive in the Town and Country East development.

The council voted to post and enforce a handicapped-parking zone in front of 2447 Delmar Ave. at the request of the resident of that building.

Fire and Water Committee Chairman Virgil Kambarian announced that the committee will meet March 13 at 5:30 p.m. in the council chambers.

Sanitation and Inspection Committee Chairman Judy Whitaker called a meeting of that committee for 6 p.m. March 27 in the council chambers.

The next regularly scheduled meeting of the City Council was rescheduled from Tuesday, March 20, to Wednesday, March 21, at 7 p.m. in the council chambers. The change was made because March 20 is the primary election day.

Greathouse: Poor fishing at Horseshoe Lake not his fault

By Andy Siering

Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — Tom E. Jones of Granite City blames the Metro East Sanitary District for the poor fishing this winter at Horseshoe Lake, but MESD boss Shang Greathouse swears it's not his fault.

Jones said the water level in the shallow lake has dropped "six or seven inches in the last two weeks. They've ruined fishing out there for the last month," Jones said. "Noboby's catching anything. It's just no good."

But Greathouse said the lake is lowered at the request of Horseshoe Lake State Park Site Superintendent Len Wright. Greathouse said the MESD sometimes lowers the level in the lake on its own, but only when the Mississippi River is very high and ruin is forecast.

When the river level is above 19 feet, Greathouse said, the MESD has to turn on its electric pumps to pump water out of the Cahokia Ditch into the river. This is expensive, and the MESD prefers to let water flow by gravity from the ditch.

So, if the river is high and rain is forecast, the MESD will sometimes open its two culverts to the lake to lower the lake so it will have a reserve capacity when the ditch becomes full. Otherwise, flooding could result, he said.

Wright said Greathouse had ultimate control of the lake's level, but said Greathouse would comply with his requests "90 percent of the time." Wright said the culverts have been open for several weeks now, and the water level is still about nine inches above its normal summer pool stage. He asked Greathouse to lower it because the spring rainy season is coming up.

Wright said it takes "a long time" to lower the lake's level. For example, the gates have been open for almost a month and the lake has only dropped 11 inches, he said.

Part of the reason for the slow pace is the 20 million gallons of water pumped into the lake daily from Granite City Steel's wastewater treatment plant.

Greathouse and Wright said they constantly hear complaints about the lake's level. They said conflicting interests — including fishermen, hunters, farmers and the operator of the Horseshoe Lake Marina — all have different ideas about the desirable water level for the shallow lake.

Most of Horseshoe Lake ranges from only two to four feet in depth, with an average depth of three feet; so, even minor fluctuations in the amount of water can have a profound effect on the lake's level, Greathouse said.

Residents along the Nameoki Ditch and Elm Slough complain when rainwater backs up into those bodies of water and onto their land. That's another reason for lowering the lake when rain is expected, Wright said.

Bill Worthen, who operates the boat concession at the Horseshoe Lake Marina, said he believes Greathouse opens and shuts the culvert gates depending on who was the latest to complain. He said farmers and hunters want the water low, and he and the fishermen want it higher.

"Shang told me he doesn't care where it is unless the river's high," Worthen said.

"When he gets a call, he tries to comply. Farmers won't call him back when it gets to a level that suits them. By the time I notice it, it's too low."

He predicted that thousands of fish will be killed by low water levels again this spring. Worthen said the same thing happens every year and "it will stay that way until they get the politicians involved and decide who has control."

Philippians 4:11 "...I have learned, in whatever state I am, to be content."

The Apostle Paul is telling us several things here in a very few words. First he says he has learned. God's way with us is a teaching way. He will teach us love, patience, gentleness, etc. When we do not learn from our first lesson, God will keep on teaching until we do learn. Do not become discouraged when life isn't perfect. God is teaching you to trust him. Godliness with contentment is great gain. Understand that many people who go to church and worship regularly are not contented with their lives. We must LEARN to be content. Remember, that God is in control. He loves you. He gives his peace to you. He will never leave you forsake you. Believe that and you can have contentment in your soul.

LIGNOUL TO MCKENDREE: Chad Lignoul of the Warrior soccer team has given a verbal commitment to play college soccer at McKendree College in Lebanon. Lignoul had six assists last year out of the backfield for the state champions and scored one goal — the clincher in Granite City's 2-0 win over Glenbrook North in the state championship game. He becomes the fourth Warrior senior to verbally commit to a college soccer program.

GC's Thompson shut down Amazin' Mets for Cougars

The two mainstays of the 1969 SIUE pitching staff were a pair of righthanders from Granite City, Bruce Thompson and Donny Rains.

Thompson, with a 7-0 record and a 2.04 ERA, was the ace of the Cougar staff. But the sophomore Rains, at 3-3 with a 1.64 ERA, showed great promise.

Thompson's most brilliant outing in 1969 came early, during SIUE's spring break trip to Florida in mid-March. It was the Cougars' seventh game of the trip against the New York Mets' AAA farm club. The game ended in a 6-6 tie after nine innings because — believe it or not — the Mets ran out of hurlers.

Thompson was SIUE's starter against Jerry Kosman, who was down from the parent club to get some much-needed work. Kosman and Tom Seaver had been with the Mets since 1967. The Cougars — behind a pair of home runs by Mike Scroggins — knocked Kosman out by the fourth inning. Thompson, meanwhile, owned a no-hitter through seven frames.

As the Mets took their cuts in the eighth, major league scout Del Wilbur took a seat on the bench next to SIUE coach Roy E. Lee. Wilbur's son Rick was trying to make the Cougar pitching staff. So even though Thompson was working on a no-hitter, Lee pulled him and gave young Wilbur the ball.

But the youngster wasn't even ready for college baseball, much less minor league hitters. He was blasted for six runs and it was goodbye to the no-hitter.

Thompson, a great prospect in everyone's book, was signed by the Cardinals and in two years was the ace of their farm club in Little Rock, Ark.

But arm trouble hit Bruce, although he never gave up. After five or six years, he turned in his spikes and entered the business world. He still lives and works in Little Rock.

After his "perfect" outing against the Mets' top rookies, I often wonder what would have happened to Thompson's career if Lee had left him in to finish that game.

The students are shown with their creation, as well as a life-size re-creation of a dinosaur femur bone and a cow femur bone for size comparison. The life-size bone is nearly eight feet high. Parkview students master knowledge

A team of 11 students from Parkview School scored a possible 482 of 1000 possible points to finish 25th among teams from Illinois in a basic academic knowledge contest.

Team members were Justin Bernick, Erin Buckingham, Tricia Cavins, Jared Embick, Mark French, Paul Holloway, Marcy Holsinger, William Jaffe, Summer Koenig, Jeff Logsdon and Denise McMillan.

On Feb. 7, students from the United States, Canada, England, South America, Africa and the Pacific Basin competed in the Third Elementary Knowledge Master Open, an academic contest using knowledge in the areas of Life Science, American History, Literature and 11 other areas of curricula.

Elementary school teams faced tough questions competing for top scores based on speed and accuracy.

Parkview School has entered students in the Knowledge Master competition twice.

Academic coach Jane Isenburg described this year's efforts as "greatly improved over our previous performance. Our students were much more improved and displayed a great deal of cooperative effort," she said.

Expect kinder, gentler bosses in '90s

By Roger McGrath
Correspondent

Bosses are not magically going to turn into princes as the 1990s progress, but they will be more sensitive to workers' needs, particularly on family issues, labor market observers say.

Credit a looming labor shortage for this turn of events, with an assist to the growth of women in the workforce.

"There are going to be shortages in some industries and (high-skill) occupations," said Russell Signorino, labor analyst with the Missouri Division of Employment Security.

There will be more women in the workforce, with 61.2 percent of them holding jobs by 1995. Women are expected to make up 46.9 percent of the 1995 work force, up from 44.6 percent in 1985.

They will be clamoring for special accommodations so they can work without sacrificing their society-mandated role as care-givers, raising the children and caring for aging parents, said Martha Ozawa, professor of social policy at Washington University.

Signorino, Ozawa and others predict growth of on-site day-care facilities, flexible working hours, benefits for part-time workers and other incentives.

Such incentives will be necessary if employers are going to attract and retain the employees of the '90s, said Karen Sizemore, a benefits specialist with Towers Perrin & Co., a compensation consulting firm.

The work environment will be markedly different. "Employees will come in (to work) when they come in," thanks to flexible work schedules and management's new tolerance toward family matters, according to Ed Kaskowitz, a professor in the business school at St. Louis University.

Employers who do not make these concessions will find themselves fielding a team of second stringers — and posting less than optimum operating results — as more talented staffers desert for bosses who cater to their needs, Ozawa said. She has written a book on the topic, "Women's Life Cycles & Economic Insecurity."

Fortunately, "employers are behaving rationally. They are picking the people who can do the job," and then acting to meet that valued staffer's needs, she said.

Labor-shortage concessions are not yet common, however. "This kind of stuff doesn't happen overnight," Signorino said.

Some industries, specifically fast-food and health care, are blazing the trail.

The pool of young workers available to work at fast-food outlets is falling, due to the declining number of teen-agers (falling at a rate of 4 percent a year), the increasing number of high-school dropouts (who don't have the needed skills) and, of those who complete high school, the increasing number heading off to college, Kaskowitz said.

Fast-food operators have boosted starting wages to entice teen-agers into the fold, plus they have sought out qualified senior citizens and handicapped workers.

McDonald's Corp. managers attend special seminars that acquaint them with issues important to employees who are high school students, senior citizens or handicapped, said Judy Stoebel, personnel manager for McDonald's St. Louis region.

Hospitals are confronting the nursing shortage with a variety of programs. For instance, part-timers at Barnes Hospital now accrue benefits based on the number of hours worked, said Chris Corbin, director of employment and recruitment at Barnes.

Then there are "per diem" nurses. These temporary part-time employees "receive a slightly higher rate of pay in lieu of benefits," Corbin said. "For anybody who doesn't need a solid benefits package" — because health insurance and other benefits are available through their spouse's employer — "it's nifty."

The 250 nurses in her per-diem pool work an average of one shift per week, Corbin said, noting they can work as much or as little as they want, in one particular department or in many.

That freedom to select when and where they will work separates the workers of the '90s from predecessors, Sizemore said.

This leads benefits expert Sizemore to predict that cafeteria or "flex" benefits packages will grow in popularity during the 1990s, because employees will choose, from a menu of benefits, those that fit their lifestyle or family needs.

In that way, two employees working side-by-side could have two entirely different benefits packages, Sizemore said. One, for instance, might "buy" extra vacation days to be used when the worker must stay home with a sick child.

Some employers will convert "sick" leave, usable only when the worker is ill, into "paid days off" so employees can tend to a sick child without losing pay, she said.

Other benefits in which Sizemore predicts interest include financial planning, retirement counseling and long-term care policies that cover parents.

Judy Allen, vice president and regional manager for Kelly Temporary Services, forecasts more job-sharing, where two full-time employees, even two temporary employees, share a job — one working two days a week, and the other three days.

"That never would have been considered five years ago," she said. "We anticipated more of that."

Ozawa said corporate chiefs must encourage schools to offer after-hours programs so mothers need not cut short their workday to rush home to watch the children.

Credit cards thrive despite high interest

By Sanford J. Schmidt
Staff writer

Even though some local banks offer among the best deals on credit cards, neither competitive pressure nor a new federal law will do much to lower interest rates, bankers said.

Research shows that credit cards are not interest rate sensitive, "said David Skinner, a professor of finance at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

The cards are a convenience, he said, and consumers have shown they are willing to pay for that. "You can buy six pounds of potatoes in the store for $2, but consumers will still buy prepared, frozen potatoes at quite an increase in price."

Officials of Landmark Bank and Mercantile Bank of Illinois, who are on a consumer group's list of "fair deal banks," said they did not expect other banks to follow their lead to lower rates because their reasons for marketing the cards are different.

The big banks are not trying to attract more customers to their checking and savings accounts, so they are more likely to charge what the market will bear, said Lynn Hall, president of Alton Banking and Trust Co.

Landmark and Mercantile offer cards with rates of 13.9 percent and 15.9 percent. The rates, combined with terms on grace periods and annual fees, put them on the consumer's list compiled by Bankcard Holders of America. Large national banks are charging almost 20 percent interest rates on their cards. New York-based Citibank charges 19.8 percent.

The new law, which went into effect in August, requires companies to clearly disclose interest rates, fees, grace period, minimum finance charge and method of computing balance. It applies to department stores credit cards as well as bank cards.

The goal of the groups pushing for the legislation was to force down the rates, Elgie Holstein, director of Bankcard Holders of America, said.

"By encouraging consumers to shop around, you encourage competition," Holstein said.

"The new law finally enables consumers to comparison shop

"The new law finally enables consumers to comparison shop for credit cards before they apply for them, before the banks scrutinize their personal credit reports and before they receive their new cards," he said.

But Holstein and Skinner agreed that if consumers would do a better job of shopping, they could save themselves some money.

The Bankcard Holders of America offers a list of what it considers the best deals across the country. The list is available from the BHA, 460 Park Place, Suite 1000, Herndon, Va., 22070.

Boot contract awarded

By Edward T. Hearn
Staff writer

WASHINGTON — The Belleville Shoe Manufacturing Co. has been awarded a $12.9 million Defense Department contract to supply the military with 300,000 pairs of combat boots.

The company was asked to continue work already assigned to it under an existing contract, U.S. Sens. Alan Dixon and Paul Simon said in a joint statement.

"I am pleased that my hometown of Belleville was chosen to carry out this contract award. It is important that Illinois in general continues to increase the return of its tax investment in the federal government," Dixon said.

U.S. Rep. Jerry Costello, D-21st, who also hails from Belleville, said, "I take particular pride in awards such as this, as I recall the efforts we made to keep and expand the Belleville Shoe in Belleville when I was still County Board Chairman."

President Eric Weidmann said the contract would be an economic boon and prevent having to lay off workers.

"Our company and its 365 employees appreciate the congressmen's help," Weidmann said.

SIUE High School Jazz Band festival slated for March 10

Trumpeter Marvin Stamm, an internationally acclaimed jazz musician and recording artist, will conduct clinics at the annual High School Jazz Band Festival March 10 on the campus of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

Presented by the SIUE department of music and supported by a grant from the SIUE Excellence in Undergraduate Education Program, some 16 high school jazz bands from the Illinois-Missouri region are expected to compete at the festival, to be conducted from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. in SIUE's Communications Building theater.

In addition to Stamm, veteran clinician and drummer Adam Nussbaum will also conduct clinics at the all-day festival, which will be capped by a 5 p.m. concert featuring Stamm and Nussbaum with the SIUE Concert Jazz Band, directed by Brett Stamps. Stamps is an associate professor of music at SIUE and director of the University's Jazz Studies Program. The concert will be open to the public.

Two clinics by Stamm and Nussbaum, at 11 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. that day, will be presented in SIUE's University Center Goshen Lounge and will be open to the public. Stamm and Nussbaum will be assisted by Tommy Kennedy, a nationally known jazz bassist from St. Louis, as well as Prof. Stamps and SIUE music faculty members Ricky Haydon, guitarist and assistant professor of music, and pianist Ed Platt.

Worth a drive to theater for 'Driving Miss Daisy'

"Driving Miss Daisy" (*) is a dazzling duet of tandem performing by Jessica Tandy and Morgan Freeman, the likes of which you haven't witnessed in years.

Directed by Bruce Beresford, whose previous work includes "Tender Mercies," "Breaker Morant" and "Crimes of the Heart," "Driving Miss Daisy" is about an independent and eccentric 72-year-old woman in Atlanta whose businessman son decides to get his mom a chauffeur after she drives her new 1948 Packard into a neighbor's garden.

Jessica Tandy plays Daisy Werthan, the lady with the questionable driving skills and Morgan Freeman is Hoke Colburn, her new driver. A portly Dan Aykroyd plays her son.

Daisy is resentful about the change. Already an able bully to her housekeeper Idella, played by Esther Rolle, she endeavors to take the same tactics with Hoke, but it doesn't work. The courtly Hoke has more patience than Daisy has hostilities. The action between the two verbal sparring partners is played out in well-formed episodes of errands and trips.

As the protagonists age, the basic themes of this efficient script develop as the relationship between Daisy and Hoke becomes a metaphor of a parallel relationship struggle between the white and black cultures in society during that period of growing civil rights awareness.

Harry Hamm

Based on the long-running off-Broadway play of the same title, the film version of "Driving Miss Daisy" was written by Alfred Uhry, who also penned the play.

"Driving Miss Daisy" has a warm, soft look and production design that perfectly matches the 22-year time frame in which it takes place. Tandy and Freeman keep the film fresh and vibrant at all times. One segment that takes place during a brief trip through Alabama, and becomes the most blatant episode of racism depicted in the motion picture, convincingly cements the relationship between Daisy and Hoke.

"Driving Miss Daisy" is an outstanding blend of the right story, the right cast and knowledgeable, empathetic direction. Most of all, it is the kind of movie audiences (and me) love because of its reaffirming spirit and thoroughly enjoyable nature.

Rated PG for mild language lapse. Running time: 90 minutes. Critic's rating based on four stars.

Livingston Dancers at SIUE

Loretta Livingston & Dancers will appear at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville on Thursday, March 8, at 7:30 p.m. in the Communications Building theater.

The company's appearance is part of the University's Arts & Issues series, and is made possible with the support of the Arts and Education Council of Greater St. Louis, Arts and Midwest Members and Friends; the Illinois Arts Council, a state agency; and the National Endowment for the Arts.

Before forming her own company in 1984, Livingston danced for 10 years with the Bella Lewitzky Dance Company, performing and teaching throughout the United States and Europe.

Tickets for Loretta Livingston & Dancers are limited and may be purchased at the University Center ticket office at $7.50 for the general public, including SIUE faculty and staff. The cost of a ticket for SIUE students, as well as all area college and high students, is $2.50. Free parking is available in the lot behind the Communications Building, or an admission ticket stub will allow its holder free parking in the Visitors' lot next to the University Center. For program and ticket information, interested persons may call (618) 682-2320 or write to: University Center Ticket Office, Campus Box 1067, SIUE, Edwardsville, Ill. 62026-1067.
